J.C. BOSE UNIVERSITY STARTED SIX NEW COURSES FROM ACADEMIC SESSION 2021-22

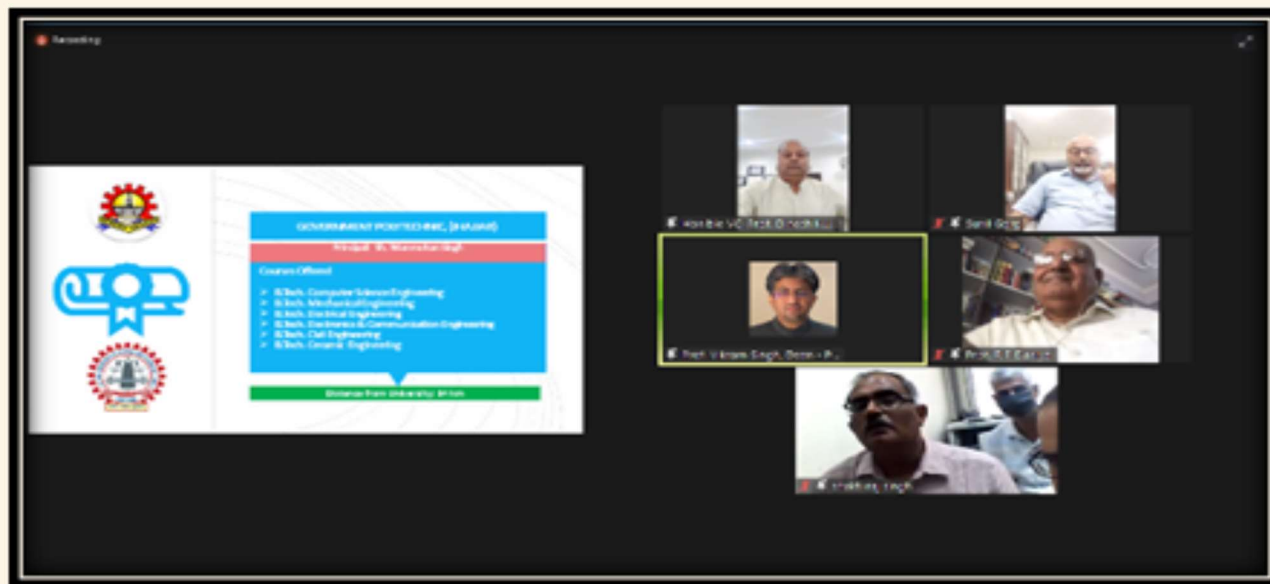

Considering the high market demand for qualified professionals having expertise in the fields of Artificial Intelligence and Robotics, Environmental Engineering, Life Sciences, Social Work, Animation and Finance, the J.C. Bose University of Science and Technology, YMCA, Faridabad has decided to introduce five undergraduate and one postgraduate courses in these disciplines from upcoming academic session 2021-22. The courses which have been introduced from the new academic session include B.Tech Robotics and Artificial Intelligence, B.Tech in Environmental Engineering, B.Sc. in Life Sciences, B.Com and B.A. (Hons.) in Social Work at UG level and M.Sc. in Animation and Multimedia at PG level. While giving information in this regard, Vice Chancellor Prof. Dinesh Kumar said that keeping in mind the high demand of these courses and to align it with market requirement, the University has decided to introduce two B.Tech programs from this year. Nowadays, there is a huge demand for Artificial Intelligence and Robotics in different sectors including manufacturing and automobiles. B.Tech Artificial Intelligence is a skill-oriented program which aims to prepare students for new age careers. The course, despite catering to Artificial Intelligence will also have a focus on robotics. Similarly, Environmental Engineering has become a crucial branch of engineering due to the rising number of threats to the environment today. It makes students acquainted with the environmental issues like waste and water management, air pollution, noise pollution, sewage disposal and global warming.
