DIGITAL LEARNING FOR POLYTECHNICS

Faridabad: The JC Bose University of Science and Technology, YMCA, Faridabad, has come forward to assist and provide its digital learning solutions to government polytechnics and colleges under the Department of Technical Education. Vice-Chancellor Prof Dinesh Kumar has assured the Principal Secretary of Technical Education and Higher Education, Government of Haryana, Anand Mohan Sharan of helping the department in introducing the digital learning management system for the government polytechnics and colleges. Sharan was the chief guest in the valedictory function of the two-day national technology day event, which was organised by the department of computer engineering of the university in association with the Haryana Science and Technology Department. The two-day event was attended by 576 students representing more than 35 colleges and schools spanning 13 states across the Country. The VC apprised the Principal Secretary about the digital initiatives taken by the University during the pandemic such as university owned digital learning management system (DLMS), oxygen re-filling management system and Covid helpdesk, a collection of resources like plasma, hospitals, beds with oxygen supply and others that got constantly updated in real time to serve the needy in the ongoing pandemic. Due to the digital initiatives, the university has not only streamlined its teaching-learning process during the pandemic but has also been able to conduct its exams on time, the VC further said.
