JC VARSITY TO BEGIN FIVE NEW COURSES

Faridabad: The JC Bose University of Science and Technology, YMCA, Faridabad, will introduce five minor degree programmes in emerging technologies under the already ongoing undergraduate engineering programmes in the department of computer engineering. According to Vice-Chancellor Prof SK Tomar, the minor degree courses to be introduced include computer vision, artificial intelligence and machine learning, block chain, cyber security and advanced web development. He spoke about the proposal during his address at the inaugural session of the five-day AICTE-sponsored faculty development programme (FDP) on 'Computer vision and image processing' organised by the department of computer engineering here.
