Group Discussion is an essential aspect of the hiring process and it is vital to make a positive impression during a job interview. The intensive workshop organized by the department aimed to equip B.Com students with the knowledge, skills, and confidence required to excel in group discussions.

The workshop featured practical group discussions, guidance, and feedback sessions. It intended to significantly enhance participants' understanding of group discussion dynamics and prepare them for the professional world.

The session introduced participants to the critical role of group discussions in the recruitment process. Students gained insights into the skills evaluated by recruiters during Group Discussions. Communication skills were addressed in-depth, covering verbal and non-verbal aspects. Apart from this, they were also explained the importance of body language and non verbal communication including the eye-contact and the posture of the candidate.

Students were given the opportunity to experience real group discussion scenarios by engaging in mock Group Discussions. They explored trending topics and industry-specific scenarios and evaluated based on their responses and way of conduct. These practical sessions allowed participants to put their knowledge into practice and receive feedback to improve their Group Discussion. It allowed students to gain valuable insights into the expectations and preferences of recruiters during group discussions. It also provided a chance to the participants to ask questions regarding the industry expectations.

Each student received personalized feedback on their performance throughout the workshop. The workshop played a crucial role in boosting participants' confidence. Through practice and expert guidance, students gained the self-assuredness required to perform well in group discussions.

The mock group discussions helped students improve their presentation and communication skills.

The workshop on group discussions was an exceptional success, playing a vital role in the Department of Business Studies' Industry Readiness Program. The program assisted B.Com students gain the required understanding and skills required to excel in group discussions, a pivotal phase of the recruitment process in various industries. The discussion offered a realistic perspective on industry expectations, further enhancing students' readiness for future job interviews and employment opportunities.
